1 I. INTRODUCTION.

2 Plaintiff wrote comments on a Facebook page maintained by the San Diego 3 County Sheriff's Department (the "Sheriff"). Because those comments were unrelated to 4 the article posted by the Sheriff, plaintiff's comments violated the Sheriff's Facebook 5 page policy and were deleted.

6 Plaintiff's complaint alleges that the comments section of the Sheriff's Facebook
7 page is a "designated" or "limited" public forum and that the Sheriff violated plaintiff's 8 First Amendment rights by deleting his comments.<sup>1</sup> In this application for a preliminary 9 injunction, plaintiff seeks a broad injunction prohibiting the Sheriff from (1) deleting any 10 comments made by anyone to the Sheriff's Facebook page and (2) blocking any 11 individuals from making comments to the Sheriff's Facebook page. Plaintiff's request 12 for injunctive relief should be denied.

13 Assuming for the sake of argument that the comments section of the Sheriff's 14 Facebook page is a "designated" or "limited" public forum, plaintiff's request for 15 injunctive relief is now moot because the Sheriff has closed his Facebook page. Under 16 binding precedent from the United States Supreme Court and the Ninth Circuit, a 17 government entity is entitled to close a "designated" or "limited" public forum "whenever 18 it wants." Because the forum is now closed, plaintiff's request for injunctive relief 19 requiring the Sheriff to refrain from deleting any comments and allowing all individuals 20 to make comments on his Facebook page is now moot.

21 ///

23 ///

---

24 <sup>1</sup> Plaintiff also alleges that the Sheriff removed comments from the Sheriff's 25 Facebook page that were made by other people. Plaintiff does not have standing, 26 however, to maintain a First Amendment claim based on these comments because he 27 suffered no harm as a result of their removal. Preminger v. Peake, 536 F.3d 1000, 1005 28 (9th Cir. 2008) ("In an as-applied First Amendment challenge, the plaintiff must identify some personal harm resulting from application of the challenged statute or regulation.") (emphasis added); Morrison v. Bd. of Educ., 521 F.3d 602, 609 (6th Cir. 2008)
("[A]bsent proof of a concrete harm, where a First Amendment plaintiff only alleges inhibition of speech, the federal courts routinely hold that no standing exists.").

1 Even if plaintiff's request for injunctive relief were not moot, plaintiff would still 2 not be entitled to the relief he seeks. First, the Sheriff was constitutionally allowed to 3 limit the subject matter of comments on his Facebook page. Under the Sheriff's 4 Facebook page policy, comments were required to be "on-topic," i.e., related to the 5 subject of the article posted by the Sheriff on Facebook. Plaintiff's comments (and those 6 made by third parties) were not relevant to the articles that the Sheriff had posted and 7 were properly removed. Thus, plaintiff has not established any harm necessary to 8 warrant the imposition of injunctive relief. Moreover, plaintiff's request for broad 9 injunctive relief that applies to all Facebook comments and users should be denied 10 because plaintiff does not have standing to assert claims on behalf of non-parties to this 11 litigation. In addition, the Sheriff is constitutionally authorized to limit the subjects and 12 individuals who may participate in a "designated" or "limited" public forum. Therefore, 13 plaintiff is not entitled to a broad injunction prohibiting the Sheriff from (1) deleting any 14 comments made by anyone to his Facebook page and (2) blocking any individuals from 15 making comments to his Facebook page.

16 II. THE REQUEST FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF IS MOOT.

17 Assuming for the sake of argument that the comments section of the Sheriff's 18 Facebook page is a "designated" or "limited" public forum, plaintiff's request for 19 injunctive relief is moot because the Sheriff has closed that forum by shutting down his 20 Facebook page. (Decl. of Jan Caldwell, at ¶ 2.) Under controlling Ninth Circuit 21 precedent, a government entity may close a "designated" or "limited" public forum, 22 "whenever it wants." Currier v. Potter, 379 F.3d 716, 728 (9th Cir. 2004) (citing Perry 23 Educ. Ass'n v. Perry Local Educators' Ass'n, 460 U.S. 37, 46 (1983)) (emphasis added).<sup>2</sup>

24 In DiLoreto v. Downey Unified School District Board of Education, 196 F.3d 958 25 (9th Cir. 1999), the School District refused to post an advertisement containing the text of 26 the Ten Commandments on Downey High School's baseball field fence. Thereafter, the

27 <sup>2</sup> In Perry, the United States Supreme Court held that "a state is not required to 28 indefinitely retain the open character of the [designated public forum] . . . ." 460 U.S. 37 at 46.

1 School District discontinued its policy of allowing advertisements on the baseball field 2 fence and “removed approximately forty other signs that had been posted on the baseball
3 field fence . . . .” Id., at 963 (citation omitted). The Ninth Circuit rejected the argument 4 that the School District violated the First Amendment by closing the “designated” or 5 “limited” public forum – the baseball field fence:

6 Nor do we believe that the Constitution prohibited the school from closing 7 the forum in response to appellant’s ad. The government has an inherent 8 right to control its property, which includes the right to close a previously 9 open forum. . . . Accordingly, the fact that the District chose to close the forum rather than post Mr. DiLoreto’s advertisement and risk further disruption or litigation does not constitute viewpoint discrimination.

10 Id., at 970 (citations omitted). (emphasis added).

11 In Santa Monica Food Not Bombs v. City of Santa Monica, 450 F.3d 1022 (9th Cir.
12 2005), the plaintiff challenged, on First Amendment grounds, provisions of the City’s 13 Street Banner Ordinance, which allowed some street banners containing private speech, 14 but did not allow others. While the litigation was pending, the City amended its Street 15 Banner Ordinance, prohibiting all private street banners in the City. The Ninth Circuit 16 held that the amendment to the Street Banner Ordinance rendered the First Amendment 17 challenge to the original Street Banner Ordinance moot:

18 As Food Not Bombs recognizes, the February 24, 2004 amendments to the 19 street banner ordinance render the original challenge to that ordinance – 20 premised on the distinctions drawn by providing exceptions from some 21 private speech but not others – no longer viable. By precluding all private parties from putting up street banners and limiting such “bannering” to the City itself, the Council has now closed the designated public forum in which appellants sought to exercise their rights. As the challenge to 22 the street banner ordinance is moot, we vacate the district court’s judgment insofar as it upheld the validity of that ordinance.

23 Id., at 1031-32 (citations omitted) (emphasis added).

24 In Sons of Confederate Veterans v. City of Lexington, 722 F.3d 224 (4th Cir. 2013), 25 the Fourth Circuit, relying on Ninth Circuit precedent, similarly held that the City was 26 free to close a “designated” or “limited” public forum. In that case, the City had granted 27 a permit to the Sons of Confederate Veterans to display the Confederate flag from city-28 owned flag standards attached to light poles. Thereafter, a city council meeting was held

1 in which “the Council received public comments, most opposing the display of the 2 Confederate flag within the City.” Id., at 226. Six months later, the City adopted an 3 ordinance restricting the use of city-owned light standards to three flags – the flags of the 4 United States, the Commonwealth of Virginia and the City of Lexington. Id., at 227.

5 Citing the United States Supreme Court’s decision in Perry and the Ninth Circuit’s 6 decision in Potter, the Fourth Circuit held that the city was entitled to close the 7 “designated” or “limited” public forum. According to the Fourth Circuit, “[t]he 8 Ordinance has the effect of closing a designated public forum – the perpetual availability 9 of which was never guaranteed – to all private speakers. The City was entitled to listen to 10 the public and to enact ordinances that are constitutional in text and operation, and that 11 are supported by the electorate.” Id., at 231. The Fourth Circuit also rejected the 12 argument that the motive of the council members for closing the “designated” or 13 “limited” public forum had any relevance:

14 The argument that a legislative motive matters – in the nature of a “clean 15 hands” equity contention – does not assist our inquiry here. A government 16 is entitled to close a designated public forum to all speech. Reading a 17 clean-hands requirement into the closure of such a forum is not 18 supported by precedent . . . . [I]t appears that the City experimented with private speakers displaying flags on the City’s standards, and that effort turned out to be troublesome. It was entitled, under the controlling principles, to alter that policy.

19 Id., at 232 (emphasis added). See also Making the Road by Walking, Inc. v. Turner, 378 20 F.3d 133, 143 (2d Cir. 2004) (a “government may decide to close a designated public 21 forum”); United States v. Bjerke, 796 F.2d 643, 647 (3d Cir. 1986) (“Officials may 22 choose to close . . . a designated public forum at any time.”).

23 Under California law, a government entity is also entitled to close a “dedicated” or 24 “limited” public forum at any time. See Danskin v. San Diego Unified School Dist., 28 25 Cal.2d 536, 547 (1946) (“It is true that the state need not open the doors of a school 26 building as a forum and may at any time choose to close them.”) (emphasis added).
27 Moreover, cases interpreting the United States Constitution are persuasive authority in 28 determining the meaning of the free speech clause of the California Constitution.

1 Beeman v. Anthem Prescription Management, LLC, 58 Cal.4th 329, 341 (2013) (“Our 2 case law interpreting California’s free speech clause has given respectful consideration to 3 First Amendment case law for its persuasive value, while making clear that federal 4 decisions interpreting the First Amendment are not controlling.”) (internal quotation 5 marks and citations omitted).

6 Because the Sheriff has closed his Facebook page, plaintiff’s request for injunctive 7 relief is moot and plaintiff’s motion should be denied. Since the “designated” or 8 “limited” public forum has been closed, individuals, including plaintiff, are not entitled to 9 post comments on the Sheriff’s Facebook page.

10 III. PLAINTIFF IS NOT ENTITLED TO THE INJUNCTIVE RELIEF HE 11 SEEKS.

12 Plaintiff seeks a broad injunction ordering the Sheriff and the County to “desist and 13 refrain from deleting or editing<sup>3</sup> any comments posted on the Facebook page maintained 14 by the San Diego County Sheriff’s Department . . . .” (Pltf’s Memo of P’s & A’s, at 1.)
15 (emphasis added). Even if this case were not moot, plaintiff would not be entitled to this 16 broad injunction. There is no doubt that the Sheriff can constitutionally regulate the 17 comments that are made on his Facebook page. As the Ninth Circuit explained in Potter, 18 “[d]esignated or limited public fora are sites created by the government’s express 19 dedication of its property to expressive conduct. . . . The government may limit the 20 forum to certain groups or subjects – although it may not discriminate on the basis of 21 viewpoint . . . .” 379 F.3d at 728 (emphasis added). Accord Good News Club v. Milford 22 Cent. Sch., 533 U.S. 98, 106-07 (2001) (“When the State establishes a limited public 23 forum, the State is not required to and does not allow persons to engage in every 24 type of speech. The State may be justified in reserving its forum for certain groups or 25 for the discussion of certain topics. The State’s power to restrict speech, however, is 26 not without limits. The restriction must not discriminate against speech on the basis of

27 <sup>3</sup> Plaintiff has submitted no evidence that the Sheriff ever edited, as opposed to 28 removed, any comment made on the Sheriff’s Facebook page.

1 viewpoint, and the restriction must be reasonable in light of the purpose served by the 2 forum.”) (internal quotations and citations omitted) (emphasis added); Rosenberger v.
 3 Rector & Visitors of Univ. of Virginia, 515 U.S. 819, 829 (1995) (“The necessities of 4 confining a forum to the limited and legitimate purposes for which it was created may 5 justify the State in reserving it for certain groups or for the discussion of certain 6 topics.”) (emphasis added).<sup>4</sup>

7 Here, the Sheriff’s policy limited Facebook comments by subject/topic, clearly 8 stating that comments must be “on-topic” [i.e., related to the subject of the article posted 9 by the Sheriff on Facebook]. (Pltf’s Memo of P’s & A’s, at 3.) Indeed, the Sheriff’s 10 policy explained that “[w]e believe it is the height of incivility to use those opportunities 11 to vent about unrelated topics or offer unrelated insults. . . . Comments on topics 12 outside these postings may be directed to the Sheriff’s Department via 13 <http://www.sdsheriff.net/>.” (Pltf’s Memo. of P’s & A’s, at 3.) (emphasis added).

14 A. The Comments That Were Removed Were Not “On-Topic.”

15 The comments that plaintiff alleges were unconstitutionally removed were not 16 related to the topics of the Facebook posts and were properly removed under the Sheriff’s 17 Facebook policy.

18 For instance, the Sheriff posted a video from a television news report on his 19 Facebook page with the following caption: “#Brake4Buses—Please spread the word, 20 North Carolina drivers break school bus traffic laws over 3,000 times a day, WNCN 21 Jonathan Rodriguez has an incredibly powerful special report tonight after the Emmys 22 and we’ve empowered you lots of great information here.” (Ex. 4 to the Declaration of 23 Dimitri Karras.)

24 ///

25 _____
 26 <sup>4</sup> Comments containing obscenity or epithets would not be protected by the First 27 Amendment and could also be removed by the Sheriff. United States v. Schales, 546 28 F.3d 965, 970 (9th Cir. 2008) (“Obscenity has no protection under the First Amendment.”) (citations omitted); Cantwell v. Conn., 310 U.S. 296, 309-10 (1940) (“Resort to epithets or personal abuse is not in any proper sense communication of information or opinion safeguarded by the Constitution.”).

1 Plaintiff, writing under the assumed name Jim Block, wrote the following 2 comment about the school bus safety post: “Do you plead the 5th about your 3 involvement in the MURDER of an unarmed woman who was holding her baby?
4 REMEMBER RUBY RIDGE.”<sup>5</sup> (Exs. 1 & 4 of the Karras Decl.)

5 Plaintiff appears to assert that his comment was “on topic” when he states in his 6 declaration that it “addresses child safety . . . .” (Karras Decl., at ¶ 14.) The posted 7 video, however, was not about child safety in general or the intentional killing of a 8 woman who was holding a baby. Rather, it was about the need to stop for school buses.
9 Plaintiff’s comment had nothing to do with the posted topic and was properly removed 10 under the Sheriff’s Facebook comments policy.

11 Plaintiff also asserts that Lindy Diaz made the following comment about the school 12 bus safety post: “Are you the same person who is responsible for the murder of Vicky 13 Weaver? If so how is it that you are not in jail? If the world was just you would be tried 14 for your crimes.” (Ex. 4 to the Karras Decl.)<sup>6</sup> Again, Ms. Diaz’s comment had nothing 15 to do with school bus safety and was properly removed under the Sheriff’s Facebook 16 comments policy.

17 Plaintiff also refers to a comment made by Brendon Benghazi Von that was 18 removed from a post entitled “Suicide Prevention Week.” The post stated that “[e]very 19 40 seconds, someone in the world takes their own life, that’s about 800,000 suicides each 20 year. The finding is from a World Health Organization (WHO) report which also shows 21 suicide kills more than conflicts . . . .” (Ex. 6 to the Karras Decl.) Mr. Von wrote the 22 following comment on the post: “What about Bill Gore? Isn’t he responsible for the 23 death of 2 people at ruby ridge?” (Ex. 6 to the Karras Decl.) Once again, this comment

24 ///

25 <sup>5</sup> Plaintiff asserts that he made an earlier comment that was removed from Sheriff’s 26 Facebook page, but does not identify the content of the comment or provide supporting 27 documents showing that it was removed. (Karras Decl., at ¶ 7.)

28 <sup>6</sup> As discussed in footnote 1, plaintiff does not have standing to assert that the Sheriff improperly removed comments made by others.

1 has nothing to do with suicide prevention and was properly removed under the Sheriff's 2 Facebook comments policy.

3 Finally, plaintiff refers to a comment from TJ Smith regarding a post entitled 4 "Coffee with the Community – Del Mar Tuesday, September 23 at 8:00 am Powerhouse 5 Community Center in Del Mar." (Exs. 7 & 8 to the Karras Decl.) The comment stated, 6 "Can I bring my mom, she is drop dead gorgeous." (Ex. 7 to the Karras Decl.) Along 7 with the comment was a picture of Vicki Weaver and her daughter. (Ex. 7 to the Karras 8 Decl.; Karras Decl., at ¶ 23.) Vicki Weaver was killed at Ruby Ridge.

9 Obviously, TJ Smith's mother was not Vicki Weaver and Vicki Weaver would not 10 be attending the Coffee with the Community event. Thus, this comment was not related 11 to the topic posted and was properly removed under the Sheriff's Facebook comments 12 policy.

13 The documents submitted by plaintiff demonstrate that the Sheriff properly 14 removed all of the comments at issue and therefore plaintiff is not entitled to injunctive 15 relief.

16 Plaintiff contends that the Sheriff engaged in "viewpoint" discrimination because 17 he did not remove "favorable comments" posted by other Facebook users. Those 18 comments, however, related to the article that the Sheriff had posted on Facebook and 19 therefore did not violate the Sheriff's Facebook comments policy. (Ex. 13 to the Karras 20 Decl.) A September 5, 2014 a post entitled "Operation Tip the Scale" stated that "18 21 people are under arrest following the 16th Operation Tip the Scale in the North County.
22 More than 50 deputies, officers, and drug treatment professionals took part in the 23 operation on Thursday, September 4th from 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m." (Ex. 1 to the 24 Declaration of Jan Caldwell.) Several people made comments on the Sheriff's Facebook 25 page congratulating the Sheriff's Department on the successful operation. (Exs. 13 & 14 26 to the Karras Decl.) Those comments were not removed because they related to the 27 posted topic. The comments plaintiff cites, on the other hand, were off topic and were 28 ///

1 properly removed. Plaintiff has submitted no evidence that the Sheriff applied its “on 2 topic” policy in a manner that discriminated on the basis of viewpoint.

3 The request for injunctive relief should be denied because plaintiff suffered no 4 constitutional injury as a result of the removal of the Facebook comments.

5 B. Plaintiff Does Not Have Standing To Obtain Injunctive Relief On Behalf 6 Of Non-Parties.

7 As discussed in footnote 1 above, plaintiff does not have standing to seek 8 injunctive relief on behalf of non-parties whose comments were removed from Facebook 9 because he suffered no harm as a result of the removal of those comments. Preminger, 10 536 F.3d at 1005 (“In an as-applied First Amendment challenge, the plaintiff must 11 identify some personal harm resulting from application of the challenged statute or 12 regulation.”) (emphasis added); See also Hrivnak v. NCO Portfolio Mgmt., 994 13 F.Supp.2d 889, 902 (N.D. Ohio 2014) (“Plaintiff does not have standing to seek 14 injunctive relief on behalf of absent non-parties to this action, under the guise of a 15 putative class.”) (citation omitted); McMahon v. Delta Air Lines, Inc., 830 F.Supp.2d 16 674, 686-87 (D. Minn. 2011) (plaintiff did not have standing to obtain injunctive relief on 17 behalf of non-parties).

18 Because plaintiff cannot seek an injunction that applies to comments made by 19 Facebook users other than himself, his request for a broad injunction ordering the Sheriff 20 and the County to “desist and refrain from deleting or editing any comments posted on 21 the Facebook page maintained by the San Diego County Sheriff’s Department . . .”
22 should be denied. (Pltf’s Memo of P’s & A’s, at 1) (emphasis added).

23 C. The Sheriff Is Not Required To Accept All Facebook Comments.

24 Plaintiff also seeks an injunction ordering the Sheriff and the County to “desist and 25 refrain from preventing any persons from posting to the Facebook page for the San 26 Diego County Sheriff’s Department . . . .” (Pltf’s Memo of P’s & A’s, at 1) (emphasis 27 added). This request for a broad injunction should also be denied.

28 ///

1 First, as discussed above, plaintiff does not have standing to seek injunctive relief
2 on behalf of non-parties (others who want to post comments on the Sheriff's Facebook 3 page). Second, the Sheriff is not constitutionally required to accept all comments on his 4 Facebook page. Indeed, the Sheriff properly removed the comments that plaintiff alleges 5 should not have been removed. Thus, plaintiff's request for injunctive relief should be 6 denied.

7 D. The Sheriff Does Not Have To Accept All Persons Who Wish To Leave 8 Comments on His Facebook Page.

9 Next, plaintiff seeks an injunction "that those persons that have been banned from 10 publishing comments [on the Sheriff's Facebook page] be allowed to publish their 11 comments on the comments section." (Plt's Memo. of P's & A's, at 1.) Once again, this 12 request for a broad injunction should be denied.

13 First, plaintiff does not have standing to seek injunctive relief on behalf of non-14 parties. Second, as discussed above, the Sheriff does not have to accept all comments on 15 his Facebook page. Third, the request for injunctive relief is too broad because a local 16 government has a right to exclude individuals from a "designated" or "limited" public 17 forum if it can satisfy strict scrutiny. Arkansas Educational Television Commission v.
18 Forbes, 523 U.S. 666, 677 (1998) ("If the government excludes a speaker who falls 19 within the class to which a designated public forum is made generally available, its action 20 is subject to strict scrutiny.") (citations omitted). Whether the Sheriff can meet the strict 21 scrutiny standard must be determined on a case by case basis, preventing the issuance of 22 the requested injunction.

23 Moreover, plaintiff was not effectively "banned" or "blocked" from making 24 comments on the Sheriff's Facebook page. Plaintiff alleges that following his 25 unidentified September 2, 2014 comment, "my personal Facebook account was banned 26 from further commenting on the Sheriff's Department Facebook fan page." (Karras 27 Decl., at ¶ 8.) Plaintiff admits, however, that he could still post comments on the 28 Sheriff's Facebook page. He states that "[o]n or about September 3, 2014, as 'Jim

1 Block,' I posted a comment on the Sheriff's Department Facebook fan page . . . ."
2 (Karras Decl., at ¶ 13.) Plaintiff asserts that his comment was also removed, but does not 3 indicate that he was banned or "blocked" from making comments as "Jim Block." 4 (Karras Decl., at ¶ 15.) Moreover, he does not allege that he is unable to create additional 5 aliases in order to post comments on the Sheriff's Facebook page. Since plaintiff was not 6 effectively "banned" or "blocked" from making comments on the Sheriff's Facebook 7 page, he was not harmed and therefore does not have standing to obtain the broad 8 injunctive relief he seeks.

9 Accordingly, even if the request for injunctive relief were not moot, the request for 10 broad injunctive relief should be denied.

11 IV. CONCLUSION.

12 For these reasons, plaintiff's application for a preliminary injunction should be 13 denied.
