11	Grounds for objection: Lacks authentication – Fed. R. Evid. 901, "best
12	evidence rule" – Fed. R. Evid. 1002, hearsay – Fed. R. Evid. 802.
13	Lacks authentication, "best evidence rule" – Fed. R. Evid. 901, 1002. If a
14	document is being introduced, the document must be relevant and authenticated.
15	Authenticating the document means that its foundation must be laid, i.e., it is
16	demonstrated to be what it is purported to be. "The requirement of authentication or
17	identification as a condition precedent to admissibility is satisfied by evidence sufficient
18	to support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims." (Fed. R.
19	Evid. 901.) Moreover, it must comply with the "best evidence rule," (Fed. R. Evid. 1002)
20	and not be privileged or hearsay. Where the contents of a writing are at issue, the best
21	evidence rule requires the originals to be used or they must be shown to be unavailable
22	through no fault of its proponent (Fed. R. Evid. 1002)."[This] rule requires that parties
23	that seek to prove what the contents of a writing are must produce the original writing"
24	(Maxwell Macmillan Realization Liquidating Trust v. Aboff (1995) 186 B.R. 35, 47, citing
25	Herzig v. Swift & Co. (1945) 146 F. 2d 444, 445.)
26	Here, Ms. Desmond-Donohue states the various dollar amounts owed each vendor
27	for services performed prior to March 31, 2009. These dollar values presumably came from some document, computer file, or other memorialized medium, but Ms. Desmond-Donohue does not lay the foundation for the source of these figures. Moreover, subject to the "best evidence rule," because these figures are at issue, the original must be produced. Pursuant to Rule 1006<sup>1</sup>, if Ms. Desmond-Donohue provided evidence that the original document containing these figures is so voluminous or complex as to render it impracticable to produce in court, Ms. Desmond-Donohue may have at least provided a summary of the contract as Rule 1006 permits. But here, Ms. Desmond-Donohue has produced neither the original contract<sup>2</sup> nor a summary of its contents.

Idearc must have statements from each of these vendors that demonstrate when the debts were incurred. Otherwise, it might suggest that Idearc is "playing favorites" between the unsecured creditors and not identifying what debts must, in fairness and consonant with the doctrine of equality of distribution and treatment among unsecured creditors, be identified in amount and by date incurred.

Therefore, the "exception" that Rule 1006 effectivley provides Rule 1002 is inapplicable, and thus Mr. Lenington must comply with Rules 901 and 1002 and produce the original copy of the document containing the quoted figures.

&lt;sup>1</sup>An exception to the "best evidence rule" is Fed. R. Evid. 1006 which allows "[t]he contents of voluminous writings, records, or photographs [that] cannot conveniently be examined in court [to] be presented in the form a chart, summary, or calculation." (Fed. R. Evid. 1006.) Moreover, Rule 1006 mandates that "[t]he originals, or duplicates, shall be made available for examination ... by other parties at reasonable time and place." In determining the applicability of Rule 1006, the court in Leonard v. Mylex Corp. ((1999) 240 B.R. 328) explained that "[t]he failure to provide a full copy [of the document, when requested by the opposing party,] with the court reporter's certification is ... fatal." (Leonard, at 355.) No exception applies here, and even if proponent of the evidence sought to avail itself of the exception, Idearc has not complied with foundation prerequisites.

&lt;sup>2</sup>Idearc has taken the liberty of providing this succinct legal conclusion that there is, in fact, a legally binding contract as between Idearc and RR Donnelley without any proof as to its existence. A contract is a legally binding agreement that requires an offer, acceptance, and consideration. Here, Idearc has neither produced the contract in its original form (hence the following objections pursuant to Fed. R. Evid. 901 and 1002), nor has Idearc provided even the slightest modicum of evidence that a legally binding contract exists, instead expecting the Court to take for granted that their legal conclusion is accurate, i.e., that there is a valid contract as between Idearc and RR Donnelley. This is a convenient maneuver for Idearc since citation to a legally binding contract, a writing of independent legal significance, effectively innoculates it from a hearsay objection under Fed. R. Evid 802.

Hearsay – Fed. R. Evid. 802. Hearsay is an out-of-court statement offered for the truth of the matter asserted. Under Rule 801(a), a "statement" is "(1) an oral or written assertion...." (Fed. R. Evid. 801(a). Emphasis added.) Generally, absent some exclusions, exemptions, or exceptions, hearsay is not admissible.

Here, the information provided by Idearc is cited from some other contracts, i.e., the various vendors with whom Idearc has engaged in business, and are thus written statements that were made out-of-court. The figures are an assertion of fact: if they were not asserted as true, then all claims made upon the figures would be an empty statement. Here, the reference is to various contracts that are asserted as true. Accordingly, these hearsay statements are inadmissible. The contracts as between the vendors and Idearc are cited with respect to the amounts due those vendors by Idearc. This is a written statement that was made out-of-court. It is being asserted as a true statement as to the claimed fact that the prices set forth in the agreement are "below market rates for like volumes under similar terms and conditions and take volume into account" (Declaration of Anthony Plec, Page 1, Paragraph 2; Exhibit A.); it is therefore offered for the truth of

OBJECTION NO. 2: Lacks personal knowledge – Fed. R. Evid. 602, lacks authentication – Fed. R. Evid. 901, "best evidence rule" – Fed. R. Evid. 1002, hearsay – Fed. R. Evid. 802

"The contracts are in writing and executed. The contracts are still active." (Declaration of Carol Desmond-Donohue, Paragraph 9, Page 3.)

Lacks personal knowledge – Fed. R. Evid. 601. There is nothing in the facts to support Ms. Desmond-Donohue's claim about the origin and status of these contracts.

Lacks authentication, "best evidence rule" – Fed. R. Evid. 901, 1002. Here, the contents of the document are at issue and therefore the originals must be produced.
